

BOURKE COCKRAN NEAR FIST BLOW.

Lawyer Lamb Made Threatening Demonstration When Called Tool of Thieves.

George Alfred Lamb, the young attorney who demands $50,000 from W. Bourke Cockran for services rendered at the time of the proposed gas consolidation, was called "the tool of a desperate band of thieves" by Mr. Cockran today.

This charge was made just after the star witness before the Siskman had given on June 10. Young Lamb seemed eager to get into a controversy with Cockran. He was disappointed at not being able to question the orator further, and, not knowing just how it would be taken, he said:

"I don't want to ask you questions that would incriminate you, Mr. Cockran."

Mr. Cockran had just signed his testimony, and beside him stood his counsel, Treadwell Cleveland, and the referee. The orator flushed, and he turned to Mr. Siskman.

Cockran's Sharp Retaliation.

He turned a glance of scorn at Lamb and said:

MILLIONAIRE'S BODY HELD FOR CORONER'S INQUIRY.

Sensational Developments Expected at Inquest in Death of Col. McKay.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 11.—A sensation was sprung here this afternoon by the announcement that there would be an inquest held in the case of Col. Nathaniel McKay, the aged millionaire hotel man, who died suddenly here while on his honeymoon.

The body was to have been shipped to Washington this afternoon, but Coroner ordered it held at the instance of County Physician Souder, who, under the New Jersey law, issues certificates in cases of sudden death, instead of the coroner.

The body is held on the request of the millionaire's young wife, whom he married two weeks ago, and is made to establish definitely the cause of death and prevent any questioning that may be made in view of threatened litigation.

BALL GROUND, PITTSBURGH, July 11.—The Giants had none of the great McGraw's advice to follow when they began today's game with the Champions. The new chief had not put in an appearance. He is hunting somewhere in the country and it is expected that when he does show up he will have a galaxy of stars to introduce all around.

But what cared the Giants? They could not duplicate their work of yesterday. They had no sign of the best of the best. They were not even close to the playing of the things could determine. They were brimful of confidence and that is something they have not entertained for a period well nigh on to two weeks.

George Smith was as happy as a schoolboy at Christmas time, and he had a right to be. However, the upper portion of his anatomy was not inflated. He knew that there had to be no falling off in the play of yesterday if he expected to win again to-day, and in words that formed little more than half a dozen sentences he departed that information to his men.

It had the right effect, for when it came time for them to begin practice the Giants were keyed up to fine playing form and when they got to work they went about it in the right fashion.

All sorts of baited balls seemed to look alike to them. They scooped them with grace and ease and flung 'em around the diamond to each other in a manner which caused Fred Clarke to remark: "How in thunder can it be that that team is in last place?"

Two to One Against Taylor.

Pittsburgh's victory, as a streak of luck, abandoned that belief, and they offered no such odds as 100 to 20 on the Pirates, as they did yesterday. Those bettors were a bit backward in warring at all until they knew definitely who would BRIGHTON BEACH RACE TRACK, N. Y., July 11.—Large, well-balanced fields furnished the basis of the programme and the crowd confidently expected an exciting afternoon of sport. Brighton follows out the custom of other associations and offers no stakes on Friday, so that the card this afternoon was devoid of feature.

The weather was on its best behavior and cool sea breezes filtered through the latticed iron work of the grand stand. The track was lightning fast. More people passed through the gates than on any previous day of the week. Large attendances are rare on Fridays.

Eight Men, More Dead than Alive, Rescued After Thick Wall Is Blown Away—May Reach Rest of Buried Toilers Before Midnight—87 Bodies Recovered—Death List Now Placed at 175.

JOHNSTOWN, July 11.—

The rescue party of forty headed by Supt. Robinson, who in the face of gravest danger descended into Cambria mine at 9 A. M. to-day, liberated eight entombed miners at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The men came out more dead than alive. They were barely able to give an account of their frightful experiences during the twenty-seven hours they were imprisoned.

The rescue of the men was effected with the greatest difficulty. A thick wall had to be blown away to release them.

The rescuing party is working from four points and it is expected will reach the remaining men before midnight. It is not expected that they will find more than a score of the men alive.

At 2 P. M. the rescuers reached the four left headings of the "Klondike" section.

They found in one group twelve bodies. Six of these were of men who were still alive.

Word came from the mine shortly after 4 for medical assistance. Drs. Woodruff and Updegraff at once responded.

Half-hysterical crowds thronged about the mine shaft awaiting word from the rescuers.

ANGRY AT REPORT IN GAYNOR CASE.

Counsel Declares Attorney Erwin Offered to Settle if Accused Would Pay United States $500,000.

QUEBEC, July 11.—During the proceedings in the Gaynor-Greene case to-day in referring to the reports sent to Attorney-General Knox by Mr. M. Erwin, Mr. Taschereau strongly protested against the remarks made by Mr. Erwin respecting the judiciary in this province and said he considered it an act of effrontery.

He regretted Mr. Erwin's absence to-day, as he had something interesting to tell him, but hoped that counsel for the prosecution would do so.

He was quite surprised, he said, that in his report he, Mr. Erwin, had not informed the United States authorities that he had offered the prisoners to drop the case if the latter would pay over $500,000 to the United States Government.

This offer, he said, was made in the Windsor Hotel, Montreal, on the Saturday afternoon, the arrest of Gaynor and Greene.

Messrs. McMaster and Dandurand protested against Taschereau's remarks regarding Erwin's report, and stated the latter had not reflected on the Judges, but on the contrary had expressed his high appreciation of them and he did not believe that Erwin ever made such an offer to the accused.

ENDS FRAUD IN TUNNEL CONTRACT.

Alderman Whitaker Protests Against Agreement Between Pennsylvania Railroad and Rapid Transit Commission.

At the public hearing by the Railroad Committee of the Board of Aldermen this afternoon, to hear protests on the agreement between the Pennsylvania Railroad Commission and the Rapid Transit Commission concerning the Hudson River tunnel and terminals, Alderman William J. Whitaker read a long protest in which he said that a fraudulent provision was incorporated in the franchise.

He said:

"There is a fraudulent provision in this franchise, that if the city and the railroad, at the end of twenty-five years cannot agree, the rent shall then be reasonable."

"Of course the company will think one sum is reasonable and the city that another sum is reasonable, and the opportunity thus afforded to cheat the city is glaringly fraudulent on its face."

Alderman Downing asked some questions, objecting to the perpetuity of the franchise. This provoked the following retort from Mr. Orr:

"As a railroad director—and I am a director in several companies—I would not enter into any contract with the city except under a perpetual franchise."

PAWLED SUIT TO FREE DOGS.

Hoboken Man Short of Funds Found a Way to Get His Two Pets Out of the Pound.

By pawing his only suit of clothes and his shirt, Charles Selke, of No. 401 First street, Hoboken, to-day raised enough money to pay for two dogs he owned and got his pets out of the pound. Selke's dogs had been picked up on the street and taken to the pound because they were no tags.

The man entered the Health Department to-day and told Clerk Tucker that he was out of work and without money, and that he had been unable to pay for licenses. Tucker replied that he could not liberate the animals unless the fee was paid, and Selke hurried out but returned in less than an hour and asked for two licenses, producing the necessary $4.

It was only his overalls and undershirt, having pawned the rest of his clothes to get sufficient money for the tags.

After getting the tags he went to the pound and secured the release of his dogs. The animals barked their delight at seeing him and the three went home happy.
